Cartesian is definitely not what I expected from a free game. With poor graphics, no resolution options to speak of, and also lacking volume sliders, this game did everything to get off on a bad footing with me. It then took that negative expectation I had built up and then smacked me square in the face with the fact that it is in fact a solid title!

With varied and unique puzzle designs and ranging levels of difficulty and options, this game was far more than one could ever hope to expect from a free title. As stated in my first Impressions video, my only regret is that I was not able to compensate the Developers for this little gem. If you are a fan of puzzle games, this game is absolutely worth your time.

And a note to the Devs, if you produce a 2nd game of this level of quality gameplay, please do charge some money for it. You will have earned it if it is anything like Cartesian.

9V10. Cartesian, it looks terrible but under that rough surface is a really decent puzzle/ adventure indie game that I would recommend to any free to play "nomad" or anyone looking for another free game to try. I liked it.. Its a relaxing puzzle game, with some fun and interesting puzzles.. The less I say about the game the more fun it will be for you. It seems like a small crappy game at first but more and more mechanics get added that make this game really fun.

I wrote this 3 hours ago. Steam didn't recognise the game time so I tweeted the developer who then fixed the problem really fast.

Final time to complete: 2 hours and 16 minutes. Short, but really well made. I never felt cheated by the mechanics.

Install it and play it today!. Lasers everywhere
+ solid 2D puzzle platformer. right amount of challenge. movement is alright etc.

no customization/settings apart from mute button.. but then again, nothing else is needed.

short n' sweet, give it a try, you can even continue it on another day, unique laser puzzles
-gfx can be better.... This was an awesome game. I wouldn't have minded paying a dollar or two for it.. Link to the review that showed me this game is even a thing.

I don't really think I could say anything that was not covered in the review and I don't think I should try, to put it bluntly Cartesian is the embodiment of the saying "don't judge a book by its cover." Its a fairly simple game about refracting off of walls to open doors in the hopes you can solve the game's over arching mystery and save your mining crew.

my only complaints are that the game has no volume sliders and is startlingly loud at first.

and that I can't seem to find the devs name anywhere on steam perventing me from following there future work.

. Unfair levels.

- bad menu ekeys (esc make undo last option changed and made uncomfortable to exit of the menu)

- clumsy character

- bad camera movement

the idea is great but these fails make the game a little worse, i'd love top play without these fails, would be a great and funny game

. Nice combination of puzzles and platform action.

- + Just the right amount of puzzle difficulty
 - + Frequent save points help if you die
 - + Who doesn't like lasers?
 - + Good in-game tutorial
 - + Music is OK (but nothing special)
 - Initially, gameplay time wasn't reported to Steam

Make up your own mind with this gameplay: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=IUz-rCLhIEo>. This game was a lot more fun than I would have expected from a free game. The laser mechanics are fun and unique, and the storyline itself is engaging and interesting. I would definitely recommend this game for anyone who likes puzzle-based platformers... - Unfair levels, - bad menu ekeys (esc make undo last option changed and made uncomfortable to exit of the menu) - clumsy character - bad camera movement the idea is great but these fails make the game a little worse. i'd love to play without these fails. would be a great and funny game.
